The world first audio grade motherboard, sMB-Q370, is released.

The sMB-Q370 is a high-performance computer motherboard specially designed for audio.

Why it is so special?

In order to implement audio performance that exceeds the limitations of general motherboards in the field, the sMB-Q370 has applied a large number of audio parts that have been verified by being used in SOTM products for a long time and is designed to minimize the impact on each element inside the board to reduce noise as much as possible. Although this explanation may seem very simple, it can be said that it is the culmination of the many technologies that SOTM has implemented so far. The very deep and in-depth accumulation of technologies has made this possible.

How it performs?

You would simply get clear improvements in every aspect of the music including the background, texture, tension, resolution, and location in space of the music with the sMB-Q370 designed exclusively for audio. If you close your eyes and listen to the music, you will feel as if it is the beginning of a new world with the subtle reverberation of instruments resonating in the dark.
